Fortune Magazine sent photographer Ansel Adams on assignment to Los Angeles in December, 1940, publishing his photos in the March, 1941 issue...

Richard Stanley has done extensive research on the photos generated from this assignment [Adams, displeased with the final result, offered the entire collection to the Los Angeles Library on consignment for a mere $100.] Recently the collection was rediscovered, revealing unique insights into how Adams approached his subjects. Richard will be exhibiting some of these photos at the Feb. 17th lecture.

The A&B free lecture series now in its seventh year, is still going strong thanks to the ongoing support from the Friends of the Los Feliz library and merchants of the Los Feliz Village BID.

We hope you will join us for this FREE event.

Be sure to mark your calendar: MaryAnn Bonino, author of The Doheny Mansion: A Biography of a Home and curator of the Doheny Mansion will be the guest speaker on March 17th.
